Research in the field of social sciences has an integral role in finding solutions to the current social, economic, and political issues faced by the society, such as poverty, inequality, governance, and sustainability. India has a large number of academic institutions and scholars who conduct a diverse range of social research to advance human civilization. Thus, India is rapidly emerging as a significant contributor with its scholars and institutions making substantial contributions to knowledge production and dissemination on a global scale. Therefore, there is a need for an assessment of the expansion of body literature in different dimensions, such as publication growth, research impact, collaboration patterns, and emerging research themes etc.

The program involves in analyzing and measuring various aspects of social science research, such as publication output, citation impact, collaboration patterns, and emerging research themes, using quantitative methods. The program also tries to identify the key players, institutions, and research areas in the Indian social science research landscape, tracking the trends and patterns over time, and assessing the impact and visibility of Indian social science research globally. Moreover, the CBP also highlights the gaps and challenges in Indian social science research, such as the under-representation of certain disciplines or regions, the lack of international collaboration, or the need for interdisciplinary research.

Hence, this CBP can assist in identifying the strengths, weakness, and opportunities in the landscape of social science research in India. It can also inform policy making and investment based on empirical evidence, elevate the visibility and impact of social science research from India on a global scale, and encourage collaborations and partnerships within and beyond India's borders. In general, the CBP's findings have the potential to contribute to the advancement of social science research in India and its relevance in addressing contemporary societal challenges in the 21st century. The potential was through the participants perceptions.

Your Observation *

Your overall observation

The CPB Programme sponsored by ICSSR and organised by NSOU for the young faculty members of various departments of social sciences and library sciences in the country was of a high order. I participated as a Resource Person on the day the programme was held in association of the Asiatic Society Kolkata. I was the last speaker of the day but the talk was received by the participants with great enthusiasm. The discussion session went on more than half an hour. I was really impressed with high level of the interactive session.

Your Suggestion/ Recommendation *

Please give your suggestions/ recommendations for further improvement in future events

There should be a forum at the end of the programme to facilitate further communication in between the Resource Persons and the Participants with special reference to issues of further research/analysis, and communications with students. My idea is how to explore further the possibilities of the creation and diffusion of knowledge on the field(s).

Your Observation *

Your overall observation

In our session, we divided the participants in a few groups. We explained Research Methodology and how to use specific method for each group's particular field study and data collection work.
It was a very interactive process.
After my general talk on the issue,
I interacted separately with each group where brainstorming happened to decide a suitable research work and how to proceed from there.
My effort was to make each member of the group contribute their thoughts and make the discussion all-inclusive.
Head, DLIS, NSOU was there with another faculty and they offered all sort of support.

Your Suggestion/ Recommendation *

Please give your suggestions/ recommendations for further improvement in future events

Next time, this work can be done in a more structured manner. Round tables could be placed in a room, one for each group. Facilitator for each table will use some pointers written in paper slips, moving from table to table. Questions raised, concerns answered, modalities discussed.

This lecture seems out of context to the object of the CBP

This lecture deals with a subset of Research Methodology of Sanskritic Studies. It is not explicitly declared though. However ,it does not satisfy the objective of CBP fully.

Any other information

If there will be possibility for local participants to get accomodation then please provide me the same. It will be helpful to avoid travel daily from my place (Bhawanipore, Kolkata) to the venue of the programme (NSOU, Salt Lake, Kolkata) through public transport as I don't have personal vehicle.
I'm extremely thankful to NSOU and the selection team for giving me this opportunity to participate in the programme.

At the individual level, the present capacity building refers to the process of changing attitudes and behaviour-imparting knowledge and developing skills while maximizing the benefits of all participations, knowledge exchange and ownership. The said capacity building program as far as my views are concerned will surely motivate new collaborative national and international research projects to work on different research strategies of discipline, ultimate reporting and publication of the findings.

Self

The programme certainly unfolds new vistas of knowledge that would keep our sustenance as LIS professional. As a young professional, I always stive to learn nascent methods and techniques which I can fruitfully appy for the benefit of the users through proper utilisation of resources. In a nutshell, all I can say is that to enrich myself to become a better professional is the biggest motovation for me to join the programme.

I have always had a strong love for social science research and how it might be used to solve difficult societal problems. This program provides a forum for me to further this enthusiasm and learn more about trans-disciplinary research methodologies. This program provides me with a rare opportunity to advance my knowledge and abilities in cross-disciplinary social science research. I'm motivated to participate in the ICSSR-sponsored Capacity Building Program for Young Social Science Faculty because I want to make a significant impact on my profession, my institution, and the country as a whole. I am excited about the learning journey ahead and the potential for positive impact it holds.

Professional Development

I am motivated to join the Capacity Building Program (CBP) for Young Social Science Faculty on Trans-disciplinary Social Science Research: Towards Atmanirbhar Bharat for several reasons. Firstly, this program aligns with my academic and career interests, providing an opportunity for substantial professional development. Secondly, the theme of Atmanirbhar

Bharat resonates with me, and I am enthusiastic about contributing to India's self-reliance through social science research. Additionally, the program offers valuable networking prospects and emphasizes an interdisciplinary approach, which I believe will enhance my research capabilities. Staying updated in the dynamic field of social science is essential, and this program promises to keep me current.

Research methodology explains how a researcher intends to carry out his/her research. It includes steps from the formulation of a research problem to research design, development of tools and finally collection of data and analysis to preparation of manuscript. Without thorough knowledge about each and every steps involved in carrying out a research, it becomes difficult for the researcher to do the research work effectively. Being a research scholar, I would like to gain knowledge about research design and other areas related to research methodology. Hence, I am interested to join the course as I believe such courses can contribute insights while I carry out my study.

Good effort.

Content used helped the participants understand the topic and its relevance. The session was effective and interactive

Overall the course was conducted very well. Participants were very curious and lectures were more interactive.

This was a good initiative. The speakers were drawn from multiple streams. The fusion of the disciplines may have provided a good futuristic research orientation.

Well organized prog. Participants were very enthusiastic. The overall structure of the programme was very good.

The CPB Programme sponsored by ICSSR and organised by NSOU for the young faculty members of various departments of social sciences and library sciences in the country was of a high order. I participated as a Resource Person on the day the programme was held in association of the Asiatic Society Kolkata. I was the last speaker of the day but the talk was received by the participants with great enthusiasm. The discussion session went on more than half an hour. I was really impressed with high level of the interactive session.

Overall it was indeed a good one.

Excellent arrangements done by NSOU - Dept of Library Science

I am happy with the way the Capacity Building Program was overall managed.

The programme was well organised

Outstanding

Interest amongst participants regarding Fulbright-Nehru fellowships

The participants from the various discipline are real gainers during the programme. They acquired the knowledge on various databases available for them, how can they utilise resources available, etc. The curriculum designed by the Orgainers are simply exceptional.

In our session, we divided the participants in a few groups. We explained Research Methodology and how to use specific method for each group's particular field study and data collection work.
It was a very interactive process.
After my general talk on the issue,
I interacted separately with each group where brainstorming happened to decide a suitable research work and how to proceed from there.
My effort was to make each member of the group contribute their thoughts and make the discussion all-inclusive.
Head, DLIS, NSOU was there with another faculty and they offered all sort of support.

Following up of the same programme

Advance distribution of handouts on the subject of lectures among the participants would make the interactive sessions more lively and effective.

Nothing

Prior distribution of handouts on the subject of lectures among the participants would likely to make the interactive sessions more lively and effective.

A better classroom.

The duration of a lecture session may be raised

May be hands on session should be organised.

It could be made a pan-Indian programme. It should have been held for two days.

Should include more outsider resource persons

There should be a forum at the end of the programme to facilitate further communication in between the Resource Persons and the Participants with special reference to issues of further research/analysis, and communications with students. My idea is how to explore further the possibilities of the creation and diffusion of knowledge on the field(s).

Following up of the same event for proper assimilation.

we love to see more such event comming up

It was good that a topic on mental health was included in the curriculum - however - it warranted more time for the session - and preferably - with a more focused area of discussion

Further such program would be highly appreciated.

It will be great to include some hands-on sessions.

Can be repeated for others as well.

Not required

Would like to participate more in such forums

Few new concepts can also introduce

Next time, this work can be done in a more structured manner. Round tables could be placed in a room, one for each group. Facilitator for each table will use some pointers written in paper slips, moving from table to table. Questions raised, concerns answered, modalities discussed.
